

WILL TRY THE COURTS.

At a meeting of the Nevada Press Association on Monday, at Reno, it was decided that the various newspapers of the State which have been unable to secure the money due them by the Republican and Democratic Central Committees should institute legal proceedings in the Courts for the amounts due.

The best of legal talent has been engaged for this contest and it is proposed to ascertain whether or not the newspapers can collect for advertising ordered by State Central Committees.

For many years past the newspapers have been unable to collect in full for political advertising, except in one case where payment was compelled in advance.

As a legal proposition each individual members of the State Central Committees who has property can be held for the amounts due.

Should the Courts decide otherwise it will demonstrate that State Central Committees are not responsible and persons dealing with them in future will know how to govern themselves.

The first suit will be brought in Store County, the headquarters of the Republican Central Committee.

The Democratic Committee will also be sued.

OUR SENATORS ON HARRISON.

Senators Stewart and Jones are evidently not among the adulators of President Harrison.

Senator Jones says he wants the veto power of the President abolished. He served six years with him in the Senate, and during all that time no one thought of asking his advice or referring to his opinions on any subject, yet now, as President, he has the power to set aside and nullify the deliberate work of three or four hundred men after it had passed committees of both Houses of Congress, and been thoroughly and carefully considered.

Senator Stewart says: "We all love the President, but for some reason he does not like Nevada. I suppose it is because our State had something to do with the defeat of the Force bill, but he should not mind a little thing like that."

When asked if he thought Harrison would be renominated, Senator Stewart said: "No; Harrison will not be President again, and I am afraid Blaine is not going to be. Anyway, his friends have about made up their minds that if he is alive in 1892 he would be in no condition to be a candidate for President. I hope and pray he will get well and strong again so that he will be a candidate. It is hard to say who will be nominated, but we can at least fall back upon Ignatius M. Donnelly."

The Enterprise in arguing the land loan question intimates a desire to close the discussion by dropping into a frivolous proposition to loan Government money on whiskey. Probably the Enterprise wishes to get this policy adopted by the Government and then apply for the position of Custodian of Public securities.

James G. Blaine is not physically able to engage in another campaign. Harrison has gone stale, and Alger of Michigan is the man to be elected and stand by the interests of the West. There will be no third party in the field if the Republicans nominate Alger.

O'Mally, the rascally attorney of New Orleans has been arrested by the U. S. authorities for tampering with the mails. He will get away of course; such men seem to have a charmed life.

A party of six military officers have been arrested in St. Petersburg during the last week for criticizing the degradation of the Grand Duke Michael.

The end of the world is again predicted in 1899.
